Hemophilia of Indiana is a non-profit organization that primarily receives income generated from corporate and individual donations and fundraisers. Hemophilia of Indiana strives to aggressively minimize overhead costs so that the majority of funds go directly to programs serving the Indiana hemophilia community. Hemophilia of Indiana is affiliated with the National Hemophilia Foundation, Hemophilia Federation of America and Community Health Charities. Hemophilia of Indiana maintains a strong working partnership with the Indiana Hemophilia & Thrombosis Center, also located in Indianapolis.
